Paris Reports Success for the Serbian Offensive.

Bulgarian Advance Is Strong.

Attacks on Entente Center, Paris Reports to Have Been Checked.

Roumania Attitude Still Uncertain.

(Associated Press Cable.)

LONDON, AUGUST 24.—THE ALLIED OFFENSIVE IN THE BALKANS IS DEVELOPING ADDED IMPETUS, TODAY'S ADVICES INDICATE.

Paris reports the Serbians on the aggressive on the mountain ridge along the western end of the front, where they have stormed and captured a hill three miles northwest of Ostrovoike.

The Bulgarians took this position in their initial drive on the Allies' left flank.

The Entente center has been subjected to attack, but the French statement announces these have been entirely repulsed.

No forward movement is reported by the Entente forces in this region, but the Entente artillery is notably active, particularly in the Lake Doiran region.

People May, by Vote, Overrule Danish Legislature.

LONDON, AUGUST 24. — The vote was taken in committee by the Landsting, the upper house of the Danish Parliament. The treaty was rejected by 39 votes. The Folkething, the lower house, recently approved the project of the sale for $25,000,000.

Today's vote does not necessarily mean the final defeat of the project.

General elections are to be held, after which the treaty with the United States will be brought up again.

GREECE ENGAGES IN ACTIVE FIGHT

Ignoring Orders to Retire Troops Resist the Bulgarians

(Associated Press Cable.)

Athens, Greece, August 24.—Greek troops are still resisting the Bulgarians at Seres, in northeastern Greece, notwithstanding the orders of the General Staff that they retire.

From all parts of Greece officers and men are hastening to Saloniki to volunteer with the Entente forces to fight the Bulgarians.

A corps of Albanians has arrived at Saloniki.

CLAIM CONSENT OF GREEKS GIVEN

The advance of the Bulgarians in northeastern Greece was made with the sanction of the Greek Government, Bulgaria and Germany having guaranteed the return of the territory after the war.

The Bulgarians desired to take up defensive positions in anticipation of a drive by the Entente forces.

DISPUTE GROWS NARROW

The Select Committee of R. R. Presidents Is Willing to Accept Wilson's Demand for Eight Hour Day.

Want Assurances of Support for an Increase in Freight Rates.

Men's Committee to Vote on the Proposal.

By Associated Press Dispatch.

Washington, August 24. — After continued conferences today between President Wilson and the select committee of railroad executives, the situation surrounding the threatened strike was described as having narrowed down to the following:

THE RAILROAD PRESIDENTS, AT LEAST THE SELECT COMMITTEE OF EIGHT, ARE WILLING TO ACCEPT THE EIGHT HOUR DAY INSISTED UPON BY PRESIDENT WILSON AND THE TRAINMEN.

IN RETURN, THEY ASK THAT THEY BE ASSURED AS FULLY AS POSSIBLE THAT ALL PROPER SUPPORT BE GIVEN, AND PROPER MEANS BE USED, TO ASSURE THEM FREIGHT RATE INCREASE FROM THE INTER STATE COMMERCE COMMISSION.

They ask also that Congress create a permanent board or commission, similar to the Canadian commission, to handle future labor difficulties.

These replies were communicated today by Commissioner Chambers of the Federal Board of Mediation to the representatives of the men, who apparently regarded them favorably.

Judge Chambers then reported to President Wilson, and a sub-committee of railroad executives was summoned to the White House.

None of them would say afterward whether President Wilson reported the men would accept the proposals, but it was said that some encouragement was felt as a result of the negotiations.

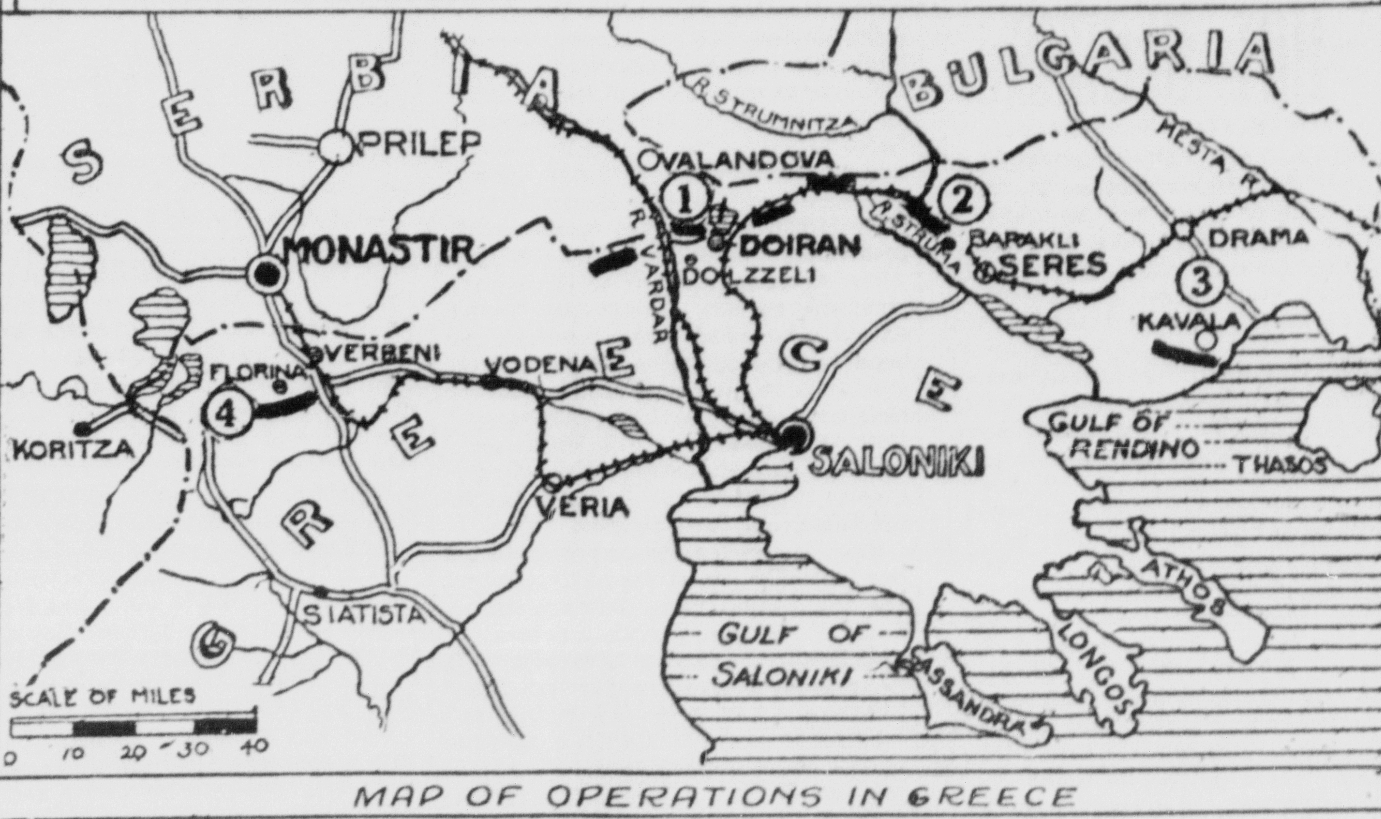

It is expected, however, that a vote of the 640 labor representatives here must be taken before the proposals can receive the necessary endorsement.

R. R. MEN CONFERRED ONCE MORE

Railroad Presidents at the White House.

DISCUSS THE SITUATION

Rail Leaders Seek Information as to How They May Get the Additional Revenue Necessary to Take Care of the Greater Pay Roll That Will Come With the Eight-Hour Day.
Freight Rate Increase Likely.

Washington, Aug. 24.—In another effort to aid the presidents of the railroads to find some way in which to accept an eight-hour day for their trainmen and avert the threatened strike, President Wilson conferred for an hour and a half with Presidents Hale Holden of the Burlington, Daniel Willard of the Baltimore and Ohio and R. S. Lovett of the Union Pacific.

The three executives went to the White House, it is said, to receive an answer to the suggestion they made to Mr. Wilson that he give them more specific information as to how the railroads may get the additional revenue necessary to take care of the greater pay roll that will come with the eight-hour day.

President Wilson had discussed the railroad situation at length with Senator Newlands and Representative Adamson, chairman of the two committees of Congress in charge of legislation affecting interstate commerce.
The two chairmen are said to have agreed that the president's position in the present situation was right and to have said that every effort could be expected in Congress to put through any legislation which might help to solve the present difficulty and provide for the future.

One of the means for recouping suggested by the president to the railroads in his public outline of his position was through an increase in freight rates. It was pointed out that the president cannot directly ask the interstate commerce commission to grant increases to the railroads. Congress, however, might pass a resolution directing the commission, in view of what it considers an unprecedented situation, to grant higher rates.

Congress also might pass a resolution directing the commission to investigate all matters involved in the present controversy and the whole subject of the relations of railroads and their employees. One result expected from the conference is an early effort to pass the bill introduced several months ago to increase the commission's membership from seven to nine.

It became evident that most of the railroad executives have come to believe that there can be only one way of preventing a strike and that is by accepting the eight-hour day plan.
The chief effort in their own conferences was to find some scheme by which an eight-hour day may be put in operation on all the railroads at the least added expense.

WARNED TO WATCH FOR ARMY WORM

(Associated Press Cable.)
Washington, Aug. 24.—Warning to watch for the army worm has been issued by the Department of Agriculture to people in the Atlantic States. An unusual abundance of the moth of the true army worm in Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia indicated the possibility of an impending outbreak of this destructive pest. The moths, the entomologists of the Department report, were laying their eggs during the first week of July, and as it takes from three or four weeks for the caterpillars to mature, their presence should begin to be quite apparent this month.

Farmers should be on the alert, the Department says, to discover this pest in its younger stages, before it has reached a large size and has committed irreparable damage to growing crops, especially grasses and grains.

BIG INCOMES IN PORTO RICO

(Associated Press Cable.)
San Juan, Porto Rico, Aug. 24.— One man in Porto Rico had an income in excess of $100,000 last year according to income tax returns just announced by the tax bureau of the Insular Treasury. This was the largest single income the tax department discovered and it is almost twice as large as the largest individual income reported to the same authorities the year before, when there was but one income above $50,000 taxed.

Of the largest individual incomes recorded for 1915 there are twenty in excess of $50,000, and of these twenty, fourteen range between $50,000 and $75,000; five between $75,000 and $100,00 and one above $100,000. Sixty-six individuals are assessed on personal incomes ranging between $20,000 and $50,000.

In all there are 975 individuals and 131 corporations taxed on income. The total revenue amounts to $120,000, as compared with $77,- 000 for the previous year.

High prices for sugar have been responsible for most of the biggest incomes, officials say, and still larger incomes and more individuals having incomes large enough to be taxed are predicted for the current year.

SWISS LOSING AMERICAN TRADE

(Associated Press Cable.)
Berne, Switzerland, Aug. 24.— That the Swiss embroidery trade is more and more losing its American market appears from recently published figures. While in 1907 the value of Swiss embroidery exported to the United States was 76,000,000 francs, it fell to 30,000,000 in 1914 and to 26,000,000 in 1915. The decrease is attributed to increased American production.

In the last decade Swiss embroidery exportation to England increased from 16,000,000 to 52,000,000 francs. The total Swiss exportation since 1896 is valued at over 30,- 094,000 francs.

HOT BLOCKS

(By American Press)
Toledo, Aug. 24.—Application for the recall of Mayor Charles M. Milroy was made shortly after the mayor returned from the Plattsburg, N. Y., military training camp, where he has been for two weeks. The application for recall petitions was filed by Christian J. Woerner, representing the Twelfth Ward Improvement association. Under the city charter, a special election must be held if the necessary number of signatures, nearly 10,000, are secured.
Action against Milroy is believed to have been brought on by the action of the mayor in leaving Toledo for the training camp after the defeat of the second $850,000 deficiency bond issue, needed by the city to meet its obligations. Shortly after the mayor left the city in the hands of the heads of departments, the fire and police departments were reduced to a third and other city activities curtailed.

READY TO COMMENCE THE WORK

Joint Commission to Discuss Border Problems.

TO MEET IN NEW ENGLAND

American Troops Likely to Be Withdrawn from Mexico at an Early Date, General Pershing Having Reported That Villa's Prestige Is Gone.
Report Supports General Funston's Recommendation.

Washington, Aug. 24.—There were two developments in the Mexican situation.

Secretary Lansing and E. Arredondo, Mexican ambassador-designate, tentatively agreed that the joint commission to discuss border problems should meet at some place on the New England coast during the first week in September. Brigadier General Pershing transmitted a report saying the general opinion was that "Villa's prestige is gone and that he can never again become a serious factor in Mexican affairs."

Supporting, as it does, General Funston's recommendation for the withdrawal of the expeditionary force in Mexico, it is believed General Pershing's report makes it certain that the American commissioners will agree promptly to the suggestions of their Mexican conferees for the early recall of the troops.

Mr. Arredondo called at the department to receive formal notification that the American commissioners had been selected and were ready to meet the Mexican members as soon as the time and place could be arranged.
Both the embassy and the department are in communication with Mexico City in regard to the fixing of a date for beginning the sessions.

The commission as finally selected is admittedly one of the strongest that yet has passed upon Mexican affairs and its personnel is as follows:

American section—Franklin D.
Lane, secretary of the interior; Judge George Gray of Delaware, retired federal jurist and since 1900 a member of the international court of arbitration under the Hague convention; John R. Mott, general secretary of the International Y. M. C. A., and noted religious worker.

Mexican section—Luis Cabre-ar, Mexican minister of finance and one of the most powerful reform leaders; Ygnacio Bonillas and Alberto Pani, noted engineers and close friends of First Chief Carranza.

The first task of the commission will be to decide whether the Pershing expedition shall be withdrawn from Mexico. It is considered certain that this will be agreed on speedily. It is also expected that a neutral zone will be established early in the negotiations.

An Investigation Ordered

Governor Willis, now absent on a speaking campaign in Maine, has telegraphed that a rigid and searching investigation be made with a view to fixing the responsibility for the action of the Franklin County Board of Revision, which has created such a commotion.

Some probes are all right and some result in good—some are necessary but more of them are like Aunt Polly's spectacles, for show and not for use.

That the action of the Franklin County Board of Revision should be "disavowed" and the officials responsible for it dismissed from the public service is certain.

What the Board did admits of no dispute and needs no proof to establish. The returns of thousands of tax payers made under oath were arbitrarily increased by the Board without giving the people, whose returns were increased, any notice.

The reason was plain enough and even if the tax payers did succeed in establishing the correctness of their returns, after a great deal of expense and effort, the purpose of the act, which for downright despotism, would make Russian secret service men blush, would have been accomplished—an increased duplicate for political effect.

If that order to increase the duplicate—and the action must have resulted from an order—had been observed more generally, the people of the state would have arisen in just protest.

The investigation which Governor Willis orders should be short and inexpensive.

The Board of Revision by its action deliberately insulted the people of Franklin county and Columbus.

Who ordered the action taken?

That's all there is to any investigation that may be conducted.

The only danger is that time and money may be spent in an effort to find a scape goat whose political influence is not very great and if that is the purpose of the investigation it might as well be ended before it is begun.

A Mismanaged City

Toledo, the fourth city in Ohio and one of the busiest and wealthiest cities in the United States, is now draining the bitter dregs from the cup of mismanagement of public affairs.

That a big prosperous and progressive Ohio city should be unable to afford proper police and fire protection to the citizens from whom it exacts tremendous sums in taxation annually, is almost unbelievable.

Yet, Toledo is in just that deplorable condition right now.

More than half of the police and firemen of the city have been dismissed because there are no funds with which to pay them.

Toledo has been cursed with too much politics and too much selfishness in her public affairs. There have been too many men who are kept on the pay roll because they have the political pull.

Ohio cities must dispense with political bosses, political ward leaders and like expensive ornaments if they are to live within their income. There may be quite a protest, so far as noise is concerned, by the "influential" citizens who have always managed to live by "staying around" the city offices but the tax payers will get more for their money after the new order becomes established.

The Balkan Offensive

That a tremendous offensive campaign against the Turks and the Bulgarians, with the object of destroying the military power of both nations, has been launched by the Entente Allies no longer admits of any doubt.

The immediate goal, of course, is the Dardanelles, which the allied powers failed to capture by an attack from the sea.

Once Roumania, with its veteran army of eight hundred thousand men equipped and ready for active service, is assured that the allied powers have a sufficient force in the Balkans to section and have an abundance of arms and ammunition to conduct an offensive against the Turks and the Teutons, guaranteeing against a repetition of the disaster which obliterated, for the time at least, Serbia as a nation, it is quite probable that her fortunes will be cast with the Entente powers.

That means not only the weight of the Roumanian armies in the scale but also a wide territory through which Russia can push into the Balkans with men and armies.

While Russia has administered some telling blows against the Central Powers, her isolated location has prevented the most effective use of her tremendous resources.

Roumania involved as an opponent would scarcely be more of a hindrance to the Slavs than Roumania neutral.

With Greece as the port of entry for the Entente Allies into the Balkans the neutrality of King Constantine's land cannot be much longer sustained.

All in all, developments of great moment may be expected in the Balkans within the next three or four months.

Poetry For Today

WINGS AND THE MAN.

Wings and the man I sing,
And the cloud-seas rolling free
With foam of peal and silver fire
Above the flown foam of the sea.
Above the long, white, winding sands,
Above the wide, dim-spreading lands
And towers lifting dizzily.

Wings and the man I sing,
And the heart that thrills to fly.
Toward palaces without a wall.
And endless gardens of the sky.
Where bloom the roses of the dawn,
Where shades of amethyst are drawn
When pancies of the sunset die.

Wings and the man I sing,
And the steel and nerves of flight
For hearts have tasted salt of tears
And suffered in the brooding night;
And time is to lift at last
To regions glorious and vast
To splendor and to living light.

PLANNING SAFE SCHOOLHOUSES

There Should Be No Nonfire-proof Buildings.

UNNECESSARY LOSS OF LIFE

Careful Planning Will First of All Take Into Consideration the Number, Location and Width of Stairways. Exits Should Be Planned on Basis of Stair Surface.

The planning of a school building from the standpoint of safety to the occupants and from destruction or even serious damage by fire would be comparatively simple if we might adhere to the one story fireproof building located upon a large plot of ground, says C. B. J. Snyder in the American City. Each schoolroom might have its own direct exit out of doors, and it would be immaterial, so far as safety is concerned, as to how many school-rooms there might be.

There is, however, not only a practical limitation from the administrative point of view as to the area which such a building might cover, but we also have the controlling factor of economics, which precludes the construction of this type except in sparsely settled or outlying sections of a city.

Height alone does not prevent their being planned for safety as to occupants and the practical elimination of the fire hazard. Because of the stair climbing involved, however, I am not in favor of constructing school buildings of more than four stories in height.

Careful planning will first of all take into consideration the number, location and width of stairways. The number will be fixed by the total capacity of the building which must use stairways for exits.

Our practice has been to estimate stair requirements on the basis of fifteen square feet per pupil for all rooms or spaces used for academic or other instruction.

We have found that the highest standard of service is obtained with a stair four feet in width for an elementary school and five feet in width in buildings used for high schools or other form of occupation. This width provides for not more than two lines abreast, each with a hand rail.

All stairs, except perhaps those forming the main entrance, which should not extend above the first story, should be enclosed with fire and smoke proof materials throughout, access to the inclosure being by means of self acting patent doors. The stairways should have a sufficient capacity to permit all of the occupants vacating the building in not more than three minutes in a nonfireproof structure and not to exceed three and one-half minutes in a fireproof building.

All stair doors above the first floor or basement, where exit is had, should open into the stairway following the line of flow of pupils. At the first story or basement they should open out toward the exit gate. All exit doors should open out.

Exits should be planned on the basis of stair service and such further capacity as circumstances might seem to demand in order to prevent crowding or congestion.

Nothing has yet been devised which could entirely overcome the involuntary periods of hesitation on the part of either children or adults in passing out of a building.

This may be due either to innate caution which one exercises in stepping out of doors or to the difference in the intensity of light; but, whatever it may be, it must be reckoned with where exits are to be used in emergencies.

In the case of older buildings, of which nearly all are nonfireproof, it may not be feasible to make much change in the plan, but conditions cannot be considered as satisfactory unless the requirements as to stair capacity, construction and inclosure, together with exits, be carried out precisely as planned for a new fireproof building.

An outside fire escape should not be built save as a last resort, as, for instance, when it is found impossible to construct a proper stairway within the building. It should then correspond as nearly as possible in width of steps and height of risers to the stairs which the pupils are accustomed to use.

The cutting off of all communication between the furnace or boiler rooms and that part of the building used by the pupils should not be overlooked, as well as the safeguarding about all steam and hot air pipes, and the closing off with fireproof materials of all vertical openings.

This list can be easily lengthened by any one familiar with the conditions, but it is not too much to say in considering the planning of school buildings for safety that we should give the greatest attention to the making safe of those of the old types which have been the cause of such awful loss of life.

LUCKY GREENSTONE.

It Is Found Only In a Wonderful Mine In South Africa.

Situated in the beautiful Kaap valley, in the Jamestown district of Barberton, Transvaal, there is a mine known by the name of Verdite. The name was given to it on account of the peculiar green stone found in the mine, which is unknown in any other part of the globe. Articles of jewelry and ornaments are made of verdite, and it has been called the lucky greenstone of South Africa.

The greenstone is a silicate of magnesia, or talc, colored green by nature in the course of its formation. Other silicates of magnesia may be mentioned here, peridot, serpentine, meerschaum and steatite. The mine, or rather hill, consists of three varieties of talc—green, white and black.

But a peculiar fact is that in the black talc there is present pure gold. Some of the finest specimens of gold bearing rock have been found at this mine. Every one knows that gold is found in quartz, pyrites, or even sea water, but scarcely ever has it been mentioned in books that gold exists in talc.

When the verdite rock has gone through the ordinary process of crushing and the gold has been extracted the waste (or what is called the slimes of a gold mine) is used in the manufacture of soap, grease, paint, paper, toilet powders, gas jets, electric insulators, crayons and many other articles of everyday use.

In fact, one might say that everything got from this mine can be used for some commercial purpose.—Chambers' Journal.

PAID TO SPEND.

Colonel H. C. Rogers Just Gets Rid of Thousands of Dollars.

BUT IS NOT A SPENDTHRIFT.

Chief Quartermaster of Southern Department on Funston's Staff Spends Money "Right and Left" in Little Wads of $25,000 or $50,000 in Texas.

San Antonio, Tex.—The "biggest spender" in Texas is Colonel Harry L. Rogers, but he isn't a spendthrift. His position on Funston's staff as chief quartermaster of the southern department makes it his duty to spend money "right and left" in little wads of $25,000 or $50,000. Little wads! Just imagine a sum like one of those in greenbacks wadded up, then the squeeze removed. But Colonel Rogers is used to trifles of that sort, or at least to handling Uncle Sam's checks that represent such piles.

For instance, there are 75,000 pairs of army shoes in San Antonio. Twenty thousand pairs are at Fort Sam Houston—just sort of shelf stock. Each pair cost $2.81.

Colonel Rogers said the army is short on nothing except tent cots. They are not kept in stock, and 100,000 extra cots is a big order to fill instantly, which is the reason for the shortage.

Mosquito bars are another article issued to soldiers. One hundred thousand of them cost something too. Double ones are obtained for $2.25 and single ones for $2.16. Double refers to weight and not to size. Each mosquito bar is for one bunk.

One hundred thousand single bars—and the government may have double that number—cost $216,000.

Gasoline costs the government from 21 to 26 cents a gallon, according to where it is delivered. That delivered at San Antonio is 22 cents a gallon. The previous contract price was 9 cents a gallon.

SOME REAL EXPERIENCES REAL LIFE OF THE NAVY

Mr. Howard Ellis, Son of W. D. Ellis, of This City, and a Practicing Lawyer in Chicago, Writes Entertainingly of Uncle Sam's Naval Training Cruise.

Now Engaged in Defending the Coast.

What the Biggest Navy Game Is Like.

The following very interesting letter is from Mr. Howard Ellis son of Mr. D. W. Ellis of this city now on the government's naval training cruise. The party includes professional men like Mr. Ellis, millionaires, merchants and the vigorous training of the navy is given with all its vigorous thoroughness.

"Upon boarding ship at Norfolk we were signed up and told to get our ship clothes. We had to wait in line almost a day—until Wednesday morning—before we obtained the clothes. The disorder was remarkable. We also obtained a canvas bag and a hammock. In the bag we put our sailor clothes consisting of four suits (pants and middie, white in color) two suits knee length underwear, two bath towels, a black neckerchief, clothes stops (ropes for hanging clothes on the line), bathing trunks, blue sweater, stencil, galvanized iron bucket and a scrub-brush, blankets, mattress, and mattress covers. We also had a ditty box, which is a small wooden box in which toilet articles are placed. Our suit cases were stowed below and we became seamen, if not sailors.

Our first meal aboard ship was entirely novel. The tables with folding benches are hung in the ceiling of the gun casements (rooms) and can be set up in a couple of minutes. Ten men eat at a table. A mess cook prepares the table, clears it and brings the food. A large coffee urn is hung at the head of the table and the food is also placed there. Every man helps himself. The service consists of one half inch cup and plate, iron knife, fork and spoon, and the fingers of both hands. For breakfast we get beans, potatoes, white bread and coffee. One morning we got oatmeal, bacon and scrambled eggs. For lunch we get hash, potatoes, beans, buns and coffee. Twice we had pie. For dinner we get about the same. You would be astonished how good the food tastes in spite of the rude way of serving it.

We sleep in the same quarters in which we eat; to wit, the aforesaid gun casement on the starboard (left) side on the gun deck. The hammock is really quite comfortable and it is not so difficult to get into one as you would imagine. In the morning at five o'clock we lash hammocks and store them above (weather deck) in the hammock nettings. Since the mess tables and benches are already stowed on the casement ceiling, the casement is ready for action and clean as a whistle.

Our duties are those of the blue-jackets, but are of very short duration. We get a taste of regular ship life without its serious drawbacks. At 5:00 we turn out and lash hammocks and drink a cup of coffee; scrub decks till 6:30, then shave and bathe and wash clothes until 7:30 and breakfast. At 9:15 we muster at "quarters" on the fore-castle and go thru some of the drills. After quarters we go on what ever watch has been assigned to us—for instance radio watch or signal watch or speed-cone watch, etc., of which space and time do not permit me to tell. Dinner at 11:30 and supper at 6:00.

We have had a couple of lectures on navy topics both in morning and afternoon. At about 4:30 we have swimming. After supper we are allowed to visit the other ships in the fleet and at 9:00 hammocks are slung and all hands turn in.

You will also be interested to know that the Louisiana is not a ship of the line—she is in reserve, as are all the other ships in our fleet. By "in reserve" is meant that she has been taken from active service, that she is no longer a unit in the Atlantic Fleet. This is not because she is obsolete nor because she is not a good and efficient ship; it is because Congress did not appropriate enough money to man her properly. She was completed in 1906, and she is the best ship now in reserve. Her full complement is 900 men and at present her crew is forty percent of that amount. There are about 250 civilian volunteers on board, of which number 150 are from Chicago and the rest from Baltimore.

There are six other ships in the reserve fleet—I mean battle ships like the Louisiana. There will also be cruisers, torpedo boats and destroyers, etc. The Naval War College is directing a huge war game in which this reserve fleet is trying to defend the coast from Maine to the Chesapeake from attack by our submarines. These are now some place in the middle of the Atlantic. The reserve fleet is here in Long Island Sound waiting orders to proceed to the stations.

Another very interesting feature of the game is the motor launches which our navy is preparing in accordance with the teaching of and lessons learned in the present war. These swift boats, mounting but one gun, will try to locate the submarines and figuratively destroy them. It is one of the biggest war games played in recent years.

The life in the navy is much different from that which I expected. I looked for lots of gold braid and empty ceremony and sailors who moved and acted as automatons. On the contrary, the officers are a highly trained bunch of competent men who engage in no more of ceremony than is absolutely necessary; the sailors, like typical Americans, are slightly inclined to be too independent and also like the same typical American is very competent and self-reliant. If they were in suitable numbers and properly equipped, I honestly believe they would give us an invincible fleet.

There is no bulldozing and bullying on the part of the officers. Their orders are curt and intended to be obeyed instantly, but there is no meanness or unnecessary severity in their manners. The reason for this is simple; in the navy as in any enterprise, the success of which depends upon the co-operation of many men, team work is essential and team work will not result from unjust treatment. Rear-Admiral Sims gave us a lecture on this subject and those allied to it; and he gave us an idea of how diligently the navy searches for ways and means to foster ship spirit among the men. The chiefest way is the dispensing of just treatment. Another way is giving the men authority to do things in the way that seems best to them, instead of making them into mere machines, as formerly was done. The subject is very interesting.

One of the most striking things which one notices on going upon the decks of a battleship, is the complete subordination of every detail to the object of the ship, namely, fighting. For instance, when you go thru the ship after mess, you cannot see a chair, bench, table or any other convenience. The gun casements are clear of every object and the gun and the room is spick and span. Go on deck—I mean the weather or exposed deck—and you see never a chair, bench, table, etc. The sweep of the big twelve-inchers is unobstructed and the crew can maneuver without fear of breaking shins. In time of battle even the ship's boats are cast away and nothing remains but the gear which has to do with fighting.

We are at anchor now and the fleet is drawn up around us. The spot is a beautiful one and you may imagine how we all enjoy it. Tomorrow (Sunday) we lift anchor and proceed to defend the country from "hostile" submarines.

I must not forget to tell you that every night while at anchor we have moving pictures, there is an automatic piano on board, we have chicken and ice cream every Sunday, I have located a good chess player, we have boat and swimming races, there is a barber shop and a cigar and candy store on board, scrubbing decks for half an hour each day is not disagreeable and the volunteers need not do that unless they so desire.

I. O. O. F. PICNIC WAS BIG SUCCESS

The I. O. O. F. Picnic in the Smith grove at Milledgeville drew between 2,000 and 3,000 people Wednesday, and proved to be one of the most pronounced successes of the picnic season.

The Odd Fellows have a habit of accomplishing whatever they purpose and Wednesday everything went their way. The day was the first comfortable one in weeks and everybody enjoyed the cool breezes under the big trees of the grove.

There were lunch stands galore and a stage erected for the speakers and decorated with bunting and flags.

The Milledgeville band furnished spirited music that justified the growing popularity of that organization.

There was just one disappointment and that was the failure of Congressman Fess to arrive owing to a belated train. Mr. Estel Smith found it difficult to make this disappointing announcement, but introduced Hon. Frank C. Parrett, Fayette county's brilliant young representative, with no lack of fluency.

The splendid address delivered by Mr. Parrett went far towards mitigating the disappointment felt over Dr. Fess, and held the large crowd gathered round the stand in most flattering attention. The speaker discussed the relative position of the United States as a world power, the question of international law and other problems involved in present day issues with force and eloquence. In closing he said:

"The United States will not become a world power nor take the dominant place which is hers by right until she adopts an international policy that is permanent."

The picnic's entertainment included athletic events, a ball game between the Presbyterian team of this city and Milledgeville and a balloon ascension which closed the festivities late in the afternoon. Prof. M. E. Gains of London, had charge of the balloon ascension, an unusually successful one.

The picnic was excellently managed by a committee of two, Ralph B. Sims and Ulric T. Acton.

Washington won the ball game by a score of 10 to 6.

B. O. East won in the horse shoe pitching contest. Mr. David Allen pitched shoes with the boys so successfully that they barred him out of the contest.

The committee is already planning for special attractions next year. There were many who came from a distance and all parts of the county.

CLINTONS LOAD UP FOR SUNDAY'S GAME

Following the bitter defeat suffered in this city last Sunday the Clintons are endeavoring to "load up" with at least another new player in an effort to beat Washington next Sunday.

Says the Wilmington News: "Manager Powers, of the Clintons went to Dayton Wednesday morning with a view to securing a player for a very important position in next Sunday's game with Washington C. H. The change in lineup will not be made public until it is known definitely that the new man can be secured, but when it is made the Clintons will have bolstered up their weakest spot and will be ready for anything Washington can bring."

"Incidentally, the New York Giants appeared in an exhibition game at Dayton Wednesday afternoon and the local ball magnate remained over to witness it."

GOOD HOPE MAN ASKS $300 DAMAGES

J. F. Minnick, of Good Hope, through attorneys Thomas S. Maddox and Chas. H. May has filed suit against the county commissioners of Pickaway county asking $300 for damages suffered as result of carelessness of the defendants in placing an obstruction across the public highway near Williamsport and without placing a red light on the barrier.

Plaintiff claims that his automobile was damaged to the extent of $300 when he struck the unlighted barrier in the road.

The action was filed in the Pickaway county court of common pleas.

REPUBLICAN CENTRAL COMMITTEE ORGANIZES

At a recent meeting of the Republican Central Committee the following officers were chosen: Chairman, M. S. Daugherty; vice chairman, C. D. Bush; secretary, W. E. Smith; treasurer, E. L. Bush.

The executive committee is composed of the above men and C. A. Reid, Forrest Anders, Dr. L. W. McFadden, Geo. H. Hitchcock, Henry Brownell and Harry Brown. The executive committee will meet and organize in the near future.

The Democratic Central Committee has not reorganized, but will do so at a meeting Saturday.

PAINT CREEK IN VERY BAD SHAPE

For some little time Paint creek has been in anything but a sanitary condition, and rapidly growing worse as the dry weather caused the stream to dwindle down until the water is standing in stagnant pools or is barely moving.

With a large amount of sewerage emptied into the creek and the usual drains from a large portion of the city finding an outlet in the stream, the creek is rapidly becoming unbearable and liable to cause disease. For this reason those who reside near the stream are restless and anxiously awaiting the time when the rainfall will be sufficient to flush the channel properly and carry away the accumulation of disease breeding filth.

This week the commissioners had men at work cleaning out an accumulation of concrete which came from the West Court street bridge when it was repaired a short time ago. This accumulation had caused the sewerage to remain at that point.

CLAN GATHERS DELIGHTFUL REUNION

One of the foremost picnic reunions of the summer was the Parrett reunion held at beautiful Spring Grove Wednesday.

Two hundred members of this prominent Fayette county family assembled and it was an unforgettable day of social pleasure, the reunion of ties of blood and feasting.

That picnic dinner! A table thirty feet long was piled high with every delicacy that culinary art could provide—golden brown fried chicken, cakes that were triumphs—and viands that tempted to intemperance in eating.

A feature of the day was the intensely interesting family history read by Mr. John A. Parrett, of Jeffersonville. The Parretts are an old Swiss family, two brothers coming from the Rhine to this country in 1737 and landing in Virginia.

In 1814 "Tennessee Joe" or Capt. Jos. Parrett, Revolutionary patriot, settled in this county and his brother, Frederick, in Ross county.

These two were the ancestors of the large family now active in both counties.

The same officers, Capt. T. F. Parrett, president, were re-elected.

Among relatives coming from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Parrett, Cleveland; Rev. N. D. Creamer, Columbus; Mrs. Vada Parrett Brown, north Carolina; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Woods, London.

PROPOSED TRANSFER TRACK STAKED OFF

The proposed new transfer track of the B. & O. and C. H. & D. railroads, across the Burke property from Temple street to the B. & O. railroad was staked off by B. & O. engineers, Thursday morning.

If the case is not carried to the higher court work will be started on the new track without delay.

A gang of men is busy reballasting and raising the C. H. & D. track near the union station, and another gang is building the new platform and train sheds.

A car load of employees of the B. & O. came down from Mt. Sterling Thursday morning, and at this point was switched to the C. H. & D. and taken to Dayton.

COMMITTEE ACCEPTS SECRETARY'S CHOICE

At the present time he is completing a summer school course at Silver Bay, New York.

The coming fall and winter promises to be one of the most active in the physical department of any in the history of the institution.

GOVERNMENT BY CHARTER IS TAKEN UP

Dutch Treat Club Names Committee to Obtain All Information Possible on Charter Form of Government—All Members at Luncheon Favor Change

At the Thursday noon session of the Dutch Treat Club the chief matter discussed was the charter form of government for cities, and particularly for Washington.

The subject was introduced by Chairman Worthington, who stated that for sometime various members and citizens had been suggesting that the Dutch Treat Club investigate the matter with a view to introducing it in Washington.

Chairman Worthington called upon virtually every member present for an expression on the subject, and without a single exception the club favored a form of government for Washington that would "lift the city business out of politics and conduct all city affairs on a business like basis."

One of the most enthusiastic speakers on the topic was Mr. Frank Bateman of Middletown, where the city is governed by a commission, and he stated commission forms of government were found to solve the problem and were successful in every way, and stated that it was his belief this city would make no mistake in adopting a commission or city manager form of government.

Following the discussions the Chair was authorized to appoint a committee to obtain all information necessary and give it publicity, that the club and citizens might know more about the matter.

Mr. Ed Fite, Rev. W. B. Gage and Mr. Earl McLean were named on the committee.

BARTLEY MALLOW ASKS FOR RECEIVER FOR THE HILL SHOW

Well Known Ross County Man Makes John E. Green and Harry Hill Defendants in Action for $7000 and Claims
He Was Induced to Become Partner By False Representations on Part of Defend-

In the Fayette county common pleas court, Bartley R. Mallow, widely known Ross countyman, has filed suit for $7,000 and asks that a receiver be appointed for the Harry Hill wild west show. He makes John E. Green and Harry A. Hill defendants in the action, and claims they misrepresented facts to him to induce him to become a partner and place several thousand dollars into the business, most of which he alleges has gone to pay debts. Plaintiff is represented by John P. Phillips, of Chillicothe and John Logan of this city.

Plaintiff claims that on May 1, 1916 he was induced to become a partner with the interest in the Harry Hill show, which, he avers, was represented to him as being free from debt, and was a very profitable organization.

Upon the representations made to him he paid $4,000 into the business, which under the contract, was to have been expended for re-equipping the business. He also placed one automobile valued at $1,000 into the business. Salaries were to be fixed later and settlement was to be made at the end of each season. He was to have one-third interest.

Plaintiff claims that representations made were false and made to deceive him, and that the show was not free of debt. That a large part of $4,000 went to pay debts, part being used personally by Hill, and that the defendants refuse to render an accounting.

That from time to time he was compelled to pay traveling expenses of the show to the amount of $700, and compelled to give his personal attention to the business because of mismanagement on the part of defendants.

He further claims that the terms of his contract with defendants have been constantly violated, and that Aug. 5, 1916 the bookkeeper was discharged and plaintiff was excluded from any part of the business and property. That part of the show has been left at various points some in Columbus, Coney Island, in hands of Green and in hands of Hill.

Plaintiff asks that contract be set aside and judgment rendered in sum of $7,000. That receiver be appointed to dispose of the business to satisfy judgment.

PAINT STREET TO BE THROWN OPEN

Paint street, from North to Delaware, is to be thrown open to traffic not later than Friday, it was announced Thursday morning after being closed about five months, or about double the time that should have been required to complete the work.

Like a few of the other paved streets, the alley crossings are about level with the sidewalks, thus eliminating the necessity of a six to ten inch step which always has been a nuisance in the city, and which engineers so long believed to be part of an ideal system of streets, sidewalks and alleys.

Surprising the Bullock.

In times of crisis and worry a kind word has been known to have surprisingly good results. The unexpectedness of such a word is perhaps the secret of its force. A book, "On the Wool Track," backs the moral with an anecdote.

A team was working on the Broken Hill road, and a bullock—the Beelzebub of the team—had gone obstinate, and the coach was passing. The whip was swinging, and some apt remarks were just forming on the back of the teamster's tongue when he caught sight of a clerical hat on the front seat and just in time thought better of it. He coughed politely.

"Ahem—Strawberry," he said, "proceed!"

To his obvious astonishment Strawberry proceeded.

TO RESIST BULGARS' ATTACK

Greek Commander at Seres Calls For Volunteers.

BULGARS STILL ADVANCING

Entrench Themselves at Various Points in the Struma Valley and Press Serbians on Their Right Wing. French Claim Gains in the Verdun Section—Russians Repulsed on the Stokhod River.

London, Aug. 24.—The Bulgarians have advanced along the Struma valley and have entrenched themselves at various points, according to the British war office's report.

Berlin also reports further advances for the Bulgars on the right wing where they face the Serbians.

Interest in the attitude of the Greeks has been heightened by dispatches telling of the determination of the Greek commander at Seres to resist the Bulgarians and of volunteers being organized for his assistance by the Venizelos leaders at Saloniki. There has been no further development in the Roumanian situation. The last report from Berlin maintains that Roumania has not reached a decision.

On the western front the French are apparently marking time, while the British push against Thiepval and Guillemont. The war department reports a fresh tightening of the ring around Thiepval in the capture of 200 yards of German trenches south of the town. Bitter fighting is going on in this section. The German succeeded in entering some British trenches, but were immediately evicted.

The fierce struggle around Fleury, in the Verdun sector, continues. The French claim "an appreciable advance" between Fleury and Thiaumont and the capture of 200 prisoners.

Conflicting claims are made by Berlin and Petrograd on the fighting on the eastern front. Both report the capture of positions near Jablonitz Pass, where a violent struggle has been in progress several days on the crest of the Carpathians. Berlin also claims the sanguinary repulse of Russian attempts to cross the Stokhod and apparently desperate fighting is going on.

Both Berlin and the war office continue to make claims and counter claims in regard to the recent fighting in the North Sea. Berlin admits that the battleship Westfalen was struck by a torpedo from an English submarine, but maintains that the damage was slight. The German admiral reiterates that a British battleship was heavily damaged by a German submarine.

CONCLUDED

New York, Aug. 24.—The annual convention of the American Federation of Catholic Societies adjourned 24 hours sooner than had been planned originally. The excessive heat was the cause for shortening the sessions.

John Whalen of New York, the president, and all other officers were re-elected, except Joseph T. Brennan of Boston, sixth vice president, who was succeeded by Dr. Peter Ganz of Louisville. The convention will meet in Kansas City next year.

The German central Verein, one of the subsidiary bodies, adopted resolutions today, calling upon the United States government to take such action in regard to Mexico as would assure religious liberty in that country. The resolutions also demanded the protection of all American citizens and their rights by the de facto government of Mexico.

HIT HARD

Athens, O., Aug. 24.—One hundred and seventy-five miners employed at mine No. thirty-seven of the New York Coal company, who struck because the company would not discharge John Murphy, mine boss, and who refused to go back to work when ordered to do so by John P. White, international president of the miners' organization, are now nonunion men. The charter of their local union has been revoked by President White, who told the men to return to their work or he would take the action just carried out. Five hundred other miners, who struck in sympathy, are still out. It is said that they will probably meet the same action on the part of President White.

It was announced that she would be followed shortly by the Bremen, a sister ship. The Deutschland left Baltimore on her return journey on Aug. 1, with a cargo of rubber and metal.

All United States marines are trained for both shore and sea duty, and the citizen volunteers at Lansdowne will also be trained for the double service.

WOMEN PROGRESS

Foresee Emancipation of Sex as Result of War,

LEARNING MEN'S TRADES.

Competition Between Male and Female Labor Expected After Conflict. Look For Transformation of Household to Meet Condition.

Paris.—"Feminism is making great strides during the war," says Eugene Brieux, member of the French academy, discussing the future of the women of France. He predicts "a violent phase in the war of sexes" when the soldiers come home.

"Competition between male and female labor will be fierce," according to M. Brieux, and he says "women will abandon the career of housewife, while young girls, having learned how to provide for themselves, will no longer look to man as a prospective protector."

Marcel Prevost, another academician, expects the women who have learned to use the lathe making projectiles will turn out parts of automobiles and all kinds of machinery after the war.

Dr. Madeleine Pelletier, one of the leading French suffragettes, who says she despaired of feminism before the war, now thinks the necessities of life are going to impose what years of propaganda failed to effect—the emancipation of women.

As to domestic life, Mme. Pelletier looks for a complete transformation of the household to put it in accord with new conditions.

"Dirty dishes will be laid out on the doormat to be taken away by specialists, who will deposit them cleaned in the same place," she says. "Stockings will be darned by other specialists, leaving the women of the family to earn the price of two pairs in the time they would take to stop up the holes of one. Cooking as well as dishwashing will be done by specialists, while the lady of the house concentrates her attention upon the shop or the factory."

Mme. Pelletier as well as the academicians neglects the question as to what will become of the children. "It will be quite necessary for France to think of the children, though," writes a woman temporarily working at the lathe. "Future generations," she points out, "must make up the wastage of war in human life, and nothing could be more inopportune now than encouragement of the separation of woman from the home and the smothering of family sentiment."

Where a King's Clothes Were Kept.

St. Andrew's-by-the-Wardrobe is a conspicuous waymark in Queen Victoria street and derives a grotesque distinguishing title from former proximity to the king's great wardrobe. This was originally the town mansion of Sir John Beauchamp and purchased from his executors by Edward III. for the keepers of the king's apparel. "There were kept," says Fuller, "the ancient clothes of our English kings which they wore on great festivals." Shakespeare in his will left to his favorite daughter, Susannah, the Warwickshire doctor's wife, a house near the Wardrobe, "wherein one John Robinson dwelleth." The present Church of St. Andrew's-by-the-Wardrobe was rebuilt by Wren after the great fire and became the city center of the evangelical revival under William Romaine.—Westminster Gazette.

SYNOPSIS.

Pierpont Stafford, banker and railroad magnate, with his sixteen-year-old daughter, Gloria, is wintering at Palm Beach. Gloria is a vivacious but willful young lady who chafes under the restraining hand of a governess from whom she repeatedly escapes. Her childish capers cause young Doctor Royce to fall in love with her. She steals from her room at night and in an auto plunges into the surf, where she leaves the car. Becoming lost in the everglades she falls into the hands of the Seminole Indians. She is rescued and returned to her father, who had offered a reward for her return. Gloria falls in love with her rescuer, Freneau. Five years later she leaves school and meets Freneau at the theater; his attention having been occupied with her sister-in-law he has forgotten Gloria.

Gloria had had enough of the guests. She wished that they would all go home. Instead they were still pouring in. The slam of the doors of their cars could be heard even here, as motor after motor rolled up, emptied its human contents on the marble steps and rolled away.

What Gloria wanted now was a solitude for two. Freneau was more than willing. Seeing a young man coming to whom she had promised several dances and given none, Gloria fled among the crowd, motioning Freneau to follow. She led the way through the dense wilderness of the conservatory to a marble bench, appropriately placed at the feet of a fountain where a little old marble Cupid presided. The trysting place was evidently popular, for Gloria flushed one brace of plover when she parted the branches. She did not recognize the young man and woman who scurried away, but she understood their longing for

The Gold Dust Was There.
North America has counted as a gold producing continent only since the late forties. But it might well have done so for about 200 years. According to the London Chronicle, in the voyage round the world which began in 1719 the privateer Captain Shelvocke found in certain California valleys "a rich black mold which, as you turn it fresh up to the sun, appears as if intermingled with gold dust. Though we were a little prejudiced," he adds, "against the thought that it could be possible that this metal should be so promiscuously and universally mingled with common earth, yet we endeavored to cleanse and wash the earth from some of it, and the more we did the more it appeared like gold. In order to be further satisfied I brought away some of it, which we lost in our confusion in China."

FEEDING THE BOY.

Give Every Healthy Youngster the Diet His System Craves.

The growing boy—the active, healthy, normal boy—is a better judge of his diet than mother or father or doctor. He needs every kind of food, plenty of it, and his system will naturally crave for just those foods that are best for him.

Such, in substance, is the theme of an article in the National Food Magazine by Dr. H. E. Barnard.

There are two kinds of food—proteins, with which the body is built up, and the growing boy needs as much of these as the full grown man, often more; carbohydrates, which are the fats and sugars and starches that supply heat and energy.

The boy's protein food need not all be meat. Dr. Barnard says "it is better that no small part of this nitrogenous food come from milk and eggs, cheese, beans and peas. If he has plenty of these rich and relatively cheap foods he will not crave meat so inordinately as some growing boys do," Dr. Barnard continues:

"The boy needs a large quantity of carbohydrates. That is why his demand for bread and butter is limited only by the supply at hand; and when he uses almost as much butter as bread, does not stint him. By the pound butter is expensive, but it is pure, wholesome food, and he can use it readily. It will not make him ill; quite the contrary.

"And do not be afraid of sugar and sweet foods. Sugar is a true concentrated food. Give him candy for dessert. He craves it and his craving is natural, not abnormal.

"The boy's instincts will lead him to choose the all around diet he needs."

Curious Old Clock.

In the tower of the town house of Heidelberg was an old clock so constructed that when the hours struck the figure of an old man pulled off his hat, a cock crowed and clapped its wings and soldiers fought with one another. But this curious piece of workmanship, with the castle and town, was burned by the French in 1693

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Force Yourself to Be Well.
"Plant your feet firmly and squarely on the ground, throw back your shoulders, fold your arms and affirm in most emphatic terms that you are strong, healthy and well. Do this for a few minutes every evening and, even if this is not how you actually feel, maintain by your physical and mental attitude that it is your condition, and you will soon find that it becomes so and that you are not really telling lies." This was the advice given by Dr. J. Stenson Hooker in a lecture in London on "Posturing and Posing For Health." "It is wonderful to what extent our state of health can be altered in this way," Dr. Hooker added. "It stirs up the currents of feeling which act on the nerves. These act on the blood vessels, and thus the whole system is improved, and we become different beings."

CITY MARKETS AND INDUSTRIES

Conducted Best by Boards of Managers.

THE CONSUMERS' UNIONS.

Various Forms of Communal Industries Are Growing in Favor and Tend to Reduce Expense of Town and City Residents and Improve Conditions in Various Ways.

By FRANK KOESTER, City Planner and Consulting Engineer.

The civic impulses which evidence themselves in improved and beautified buildings and streets are not satisfied merely with aesthetic progress, but are also shown in plans for improving in a direct and practical way the living conditions of the whole city.

Among such improvements are various forms of communal industry, such as municipal markets, municipal slaughter houses, municipal ice plants and municipal baths.

One of the most important of such activities is the municipal market. Such markets are best conducted by a board of managers, whose duty it is to conduct the entire undertaking.

The principles upon which such institutions are conducted are to buy at the most favorable times, to buy in bulk at the lowest price, and to sell at retail at the lowest possible prices, without showing any profit above overhead charges and running expenses, which include all salaries, maintenance and insurance of market and goods and other expenses incidental to the enterprise.

MUNICIPAL SLAUGHTER HOUSE AT DRESDEN.

As the managers buy in bulk and as they have the city's credit and ample cash capital at hand, they obtain their goods at the most favorable prices and discounts. The public is also assured of the quality of the goods and of perfectly fair treatment from the managers of the store, who are in effect to be considered the servants of the public.

When enterprises of this kind are not undertaken by municipalities every encouragement should be given to the organization of consumers' unions or large associations of private consumers. Many such associations exist abroad. In Germany alone there is a central consumers' union, with over 2,000 branches. Very large associations of practically the same character exist in England.

Open public markets are essential features, for they afford a meeting place for the consumer and the small country producer. In former years such open market squares were much more in evidence in American cities than at present, but with the increase in prosperity the convenience of the corner grocery caused their decline. Now that the high cost of living necessitates the closest domestic economies their value is better appreciated and they are growing rapidly in favor.

Directly related to the question of municipal markets is that of municipal slaughter houses. Such plants should be provided by every city, whatever its size, and dressed meat should only in exceptional instances be drawn from outside sources. Such a system would insure cheaper and better meats, while the concentration of the meat business of the country in a single city, with domination of the situation by a trust shipping great quantities of meat to foreign countries, causing an artificial shortage and consequently higher prices to home consumers, would be prevented. Under such an arrangement meat would be fresher when purchased and of better quality, since a more complete and comprehensive system of inspection could be carried out.

In the municipal slaughter houses of Germany, the butchers of a city purchase their animals on the hoof, and they themselves use the facilities of the plant for the operations of slaughtering, after which the dressed meat is inspected and stamped with the date. Inspectors later visit the shops and require such meat to be disposed of within a reasonable time. This insures freshness of the customers' supply.

Objection may be made to the presence of slaughter houses in cities owing to possible nuisance, but modern engineering has made the process of slaughtering such that no exception can be taken to the presence of such establishments.

Not All Her Fault.

The new maid was unfidy, and the mistress bore with her patiently at first. But on the third day she placed a very unclean dinner plate on the table, and patience broke down.
"Really, Harriet, you might at least see that the plates are clean."
"Well, mum," Harriet rejoined, "I owns to them thumb marks, but that dried mustard was there afore I come."
